Tuning Google Results?

Egon Willighagen ⬡

Published September 21, 2007

Citation

Willighagen, E. (2007, September 21). Tuning Google Results?. Chem-bla-ics. https://doi.org/10.59350/atgfm-4qc39

Keywords

Google, Bioclipse
Feature Image

Copyright

chem-bla-ics

I was just about to install Subclipse (for the millionth time), and googled for the update site details:

Does anyone know how you can get Google pick up or how it detects the Download/UpdateSite/etc pages, shown as direct links below the primary hit? Are HTML `<link>` elements used for that? Or does it use certain meta data, microformats, …?

chem-bla-ics

I was just about to install Subclipse (for the millionth time), and googled for the update site details: