

Nightly CDK builds now available

Egon Willighagen

Published May 1, 2006

Citation

Willighagen, E. (2006, May 1). Nightly CDK builds now available. Chem-bla-ics. <https://doi.org/10.59350/s63wt-hbx56>

Keywords

Cdk, Junit, Pmd, Opensource

Abstract

Rajarshi Guha has set a nightly build service for the Chemistry Development Kit (CDK). The output is pretty, but information rich: it includes results for the JUnit test, DocCheck, and PMD. The compiled jar and the corresponding JavaDoc can be downloaded, offering a cutting edge distribution for users.

Copyright

Copyright © Egon Willighagen 2006. Distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License, which permits unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original author and source are credited.

chem-bla-ics

Rajarshi Guha has set a nightly build service for the Chemistry Development Kit (CDK). The output is pretty, but information rich: it includes results for the JUnit test, DocCheck, and PMD. The compiled jar and the corresponding JavaDoc can be downloaded, offering a cutting edge distribution for users.