Abstract

FriendFeed is a nice aggregation service allowing discussion of items posted from delicious, blogs, and any other RSS-based feed (e.g. my feed). It also has a room concept, where people can post stuff around a topic, such as a conference such as Science Blogging 2008 London, or the CDK:

chem-bla-ics

The screenshot shows a FriendFeed room interface. At the top left is the 'friendfeed' logo. The room name is 'Chemistry Development Kit' with a molecular structure icon. The description reads: 'Aggregation of feeds by and for CDK developers and users. Friend lists: Home feed \(add/edit\)'. There are buttons for 'Un-join this room', 'Invite', 'Room members', and 'Manage'. A text input field contains 'Post a message, link, or photos' and a 'Post' button. A filter bar shows RSS and Facebook icons. Two feed entries are visible, both from SourceForge.net tracker: '2067761 - Update javadoc for TPSADescriptor' and '2099919 - RingSetTest broken'. Each entry has a timestamp of '42 minutes ago' and a list of comments.

Yeah the RSS feed had the top last ones or so. I'm hoping it just contains the new

I have associated the RSS feed of the CDK bug tracker, the CDK News ASAP, and will shortly add the commits messages feed.
