FriendFeed is a nice aggregation service allowing discussion of items posted from delicious, blogs, and any other RSS-based feed (e.g. my feed). It also has a room concept, where people can post stuff around a topic, such as a conference such as Science Blogging 2008 London, or the CDK:

The screenshot shows a FriendFeed interface for a room titled "Chemistry Development Kit". At the top left is the "friendfeed" logo. The room name "Chemistry Development Kit" is displayed in a large, bold font, with a description below it: "Aggregation of feeds by and for CDK developers and users." To the right of the room name is a button that says "Un-join this room". Below the room name, there are buttons for "Invite", "Room members", and "Manage". A search bar at the top left contains the text "Post a message, link, or photos" and a "Post" button. To the right of the search bar are filter icons for RSS, another RSS, and Facebook. The main content area shows two entries from SourceForge.net tracker. The first entry is titled "2067761 - Update javadoc for TPSADescriptor" and was posted 42 minutes ago. It has three comments: "are you posting these by hand? - Rajarshi Guha", "Cool - Rajarshi Guha", and "It has a bit of a delay... no idea how often FF pings feeds... - You (edit | delete)". The second entry is titled "2099919 - RingSetTest broken" and was also posted 42 minutes ago. It has two comments: "This was closed last night - Rajarshi Guha" and "Yeah the RSS feed had the top last ones or so. I'm hoping it just contains the new".

I have associated the RSS feed of the CDK bug tracker, the CDK News ASAP, and will shortly add the commits messages feed.
